

NATIVE PERENNIALS

Aster, Heath

(Aster ericoides) Native perennial grows from stolons and rhizomes and can be 12” to 20” tall and up to 18” across. The many small white flowers bloom in late summer and can cover the entire plant. Up to 20 flowers are on a single bract and several bracts per plant.

Photo Credit: USDA-NRCS Plants Database

Jennifer Anderson

© Larry Allain

Larry Allain

Clarence A. Rechenthin